

In its lead editorial Tuesday, "The Strange Case of Hope vs. Little Rock," the Arkansas Gazette holds out section of the state for trying, as the Gazette imagines, to let Little Rock's bomber-base.

The Gazette editorial was a pretty performance, but I have to give you a couple of quotes in order to set up my own commentary. Says the Gazette:

"Frank Edwards, a Mutual Broadcasting System commentator, is having a gay time these days needing the Defense Department on its economy moves, and is using the projected Little Rock Air Force base as a case in point."

"Mr. Edwards says he was told by an aide to General Vandenberg that the reason the Air Force decided to locate in the Little Rock area is that the area can provide housing, schools, churches, and recreational facilities for 6,000 Air Force personnel and their families. The broadcaster pooh-poohs this and quotes the mayor of Hope (population 8,000) as making the rather remarkable claim that his town could do just as well."

"We should be just as pleased as any member of the Hope Chamber of Commerce to see the air base there put back into service. But what the Air Force is talking about building at Jacksonville, and the emergency facility it once built at Hope, are two entirely different things — fully as different as the new air base and the old one. Jacksonville is in the Jacksonville area, which will provide rail spurs and utilities for the new installation."

The Gazette piece, of course, is an atrocious misrepresentation of Hope's position. The only reason it was printed is that Little Rock is doubtful whether the projected bomber base will actually be built — it is authorized, but Congress hasn't come across with the money. And so the Gazette vents its nervousness by scolding Hope and giving us a lot of "facts" and "comparisons" with which we are already familiar.

"I don't think the Gazette is being quite adult in belittling our section's ability to take care of even the big base now scheduled for Little Rock should fortune have thrown it our way. Six thousand construction workers were housed, schooled, church, and entertained, jointly by the cities and towns of this area when the Southwest Proving Ground was built here — and that's a fact considerably more tangible than the Gazette's piece belted in printer's ink."

But Hope didn't ask for the Little Rock base, and no one around here as far as I know — and I'm fairly well acquainted — has any idea except this: To make the government spenders utilize every existing facility before squandering billions on new ventures.

On strictly military matters the Air Force has the final say. But it's silly to argue that big installations and costly new ventures are dictated to the last dollar by military strategy. The carelessness and waste, the instances of unbridled spending in the name of first one emergency and then another — the number of these is legion.

There is a long string of abandoned flying fields and military posts clear across our country. Hope happens to have one of the largest and best. Is it wrong, then, to suggest that some of these existing facilities be reactivated, saving the taxpayer's dollar?

The Gazette makes much over the distinction between "emergency" and "permanent" installations. That's strictly a phony, and the Gazette knows it. All military establishments are "emergency" — none are more permanent than war and the changing weapons war employs.

But I have a feeling, shared by millions of fellow Americans, that not even the military are above the responsibility of taking care of the taxpayer's dollar while at the same time defending the country. Around the military, of course, there are people who are much more interested in putting up brand new construction than in overhauling and expanding existing bases. But I don't think the people of America have much stomach for any more war booms — not with the vivid spectacle of income taxes which fall due next Monday.

The former Hope military field was duly considered by the Air Force brass last year, but under a spending-minded administration. Naturally we got scant attention. I'd like to see the matter reopened — under a new administration which has pledged the people to put some dollar-pegged into the same councils which map our national defense.

Animals may live for some time in a state of torpor either in hot months in a dry country or in cold months. The former practice is called aestivation, the latter hibernation.

Hope Airfield Gets Aid From Neighbor Towns

Texarkana and Nashville have joined with Hope in representations to the Defense Department that the former Southwest Proving Ground military airport should be reactivated.

Ben Owen, president of Hope Chamber of Commerce, has received a copy of a letter written by Mayor H. A. Diddy of Nashville on March 7 to Congressman Owen Harris of this (Fourth Arkansas) congressional district, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, and key committee chairmen of both houses of Congress. The letter put Nashville squarely behind the Hope military field.

Simultaneously A. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star, received copies of letters written by his partner, C. E. Palmer, publisher of Texarkana Gazette, on March 9 to Senators John L. McClellan and J. W. Fulbright, Texas Congressman Wright Patman, and Mutual Network Commentator Frank Edwards.

The Palmer letters became particularly important when the Texarkana community leader emphasized the facts that:

(1) The Red River Arsenal and the Lone Star Munitions Plant located in the immediate area of Texarkana are advantageously close to the big Hope airport, and (2) The fact that this area can maintain almost any number of military personnel was demonstrated before and during the war when the Southwest Proving Ground was constructed here and the Naval Ordnance Depot was built at Camden — other towns co-operating in the ventures over a radius of 50 miles.

The former military airport here was thrust into the national spotlight when Jay Roberts, an announcer for Radio Station KXAR, Hope, wrote a letter to Frank Edwards, American Federation of Labor commentator on the Mutual network — and Edwards not only used the letter on the air but has referred to the Hope-Little Rock issue repeatedly since then.

Complete text of the Texarkana and Nashville letters supporting Hope's position are given herewith:

Dear Friends: Hope and the people of Southwest Arkansas are very much interested in the reactivation of the airport near Hope which was built for the Southwest Proving Ground during World War II, rather than spending many millions of dollars to establish an air field at another point in the state.

This airport is one of the most complete in the Southwest and ready for use. In fact, when the Korean war broke out, very large quantities of equipment were trucked from the arsenal near Texarkana to this airport and flown to Japan. I believe the runways are sufficiently long to take care of the modern jets, but if not, they would certainly need to be lengthened but little.

The proximity of this airport to Red River Arsenal and the Lone Star Munitions Plant is a very valuable factor in addition to the many millions of dollars it would save the government in building and the months that the construction at any other location would require.

I think that those favoring the other proposed location are trying to argue that Hope could not take

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Proponents of a House bill to put the whole-sale mark up on liquor and levy an additional three per cent excise tax on the beverage won passage by a bare majority in the Arkansas Senate today.

The Senate previously had defeated the bill, authored by Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County and passed by the House.

The bill reduces the fair trade mark up on wholesale liquor from 13 to 10 per cent. The three per cent difference will remain on the retail price of liquor as an excise tax to finance state, district and county livestock shows.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The House today agreed with the Senate to increase the salary of Revenue Commissioner Horace Thompson from $8,500 to $10,000 a year.

The House concurred in a Senate amendment to the Revenue Department appropriation bill to provide for the increase.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate moved today to kill a bill that it passed yesterday appropriating $200,000 to build a vocational high school in Perry County. By a vote of 18-12, the Senate asked the House to get the bill back from the governor and return it to the Senate for further consideration.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The House today began consideration of Gov. Cherry's proposed constitutional amendment for 100 per cent tax assessments and millage ceilings. A ceiling on millages which may be levied.

Leff Gentry, a close Cherry associate, explained provisions of the proposal which, if the Legislature agrees, will be voted on at the November, 1954, general election.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway lost his persistent fight to lower the voting age for Arkansans.

The Senate refused yesterday to act on a proposed constitutional amendment by Jones that would lower the voting age to 18 years, and allow persons over 65 years old to vote without a poll tax.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Official assurances that the ammunition crisis is over generated new congressional pressure today for offensive action to end the sit-down war in Korea.

With much of the evidence in, Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said his Senate Armed Services Committee found Korean ammunition supplies "adequate" and "rapidly getting better."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight cabinet officers in the Truman administration were listed by a House appropriations subcommittee today among a group of federal officials who allegedly abused the government's annual leave program "to fatten their own purses."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight to make Hawaii the 49th state shifted to the Senate today after the House passed a statehood bill. Continued on Page Two

Feed, Fertilizer Bill Tossed in Cherry's Lap

By RAY STEPHENS
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The political football of the 59th General Assembly, a bill removing the sales tax from feed, seed and fertilizer, finally landed in the lap of Gov. Francis Cherry yesterday.

It got a severe kicking around in both houses of the Legislature before it reached the governor's desk. Cherry promptly indicated that if he signed the bill into law, that he would veto "all those construction bills" — a matter of two million dollars.

Livestock and poultry producers exerted the prime pressure for passage of the bill, which they charged constitutes double taxation because the two cents on a dollar tax is levied against both their raw materials and their product. Cherry, who had said during his campaign last summer that he favored the exemptions, said when the bill passed the House that it would cost the state three million dollars annually. He revised this estimate yesterday to put the figure at "between one and a half and two million dollars."

The Senate passed the bill over objections of Cherry's two main springs, Lee Bearden of Leachville and Marvin Melton of Jonesboro, and sent it back to the House last

She Wants to Meet Buddies of Soldier Son

Editor The Star: If you have space in your columns please drop in a request for me.

My son, Pfc. Ulysses E. McCoy, who has been missing in action in Korea since December 2, 1950, had buddies who were at camp and who left the States with him. I only have these boys' surnames, but would like to know if some reader of The Star might help me find any of them.

They took basic training at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, in 1949, and made their headquarters in Japan until being sent to Korea. McCoy was assigned to Company D, 7th Division, 32d Infantry Regiment. Ulysses always spoke of his buddies, and sent me pictures of them — which I'll always keep. I would like so much to hear from anyone who might know of such persons. The names he spoke of were: Humphrey, Teasely, Jones, Eastes, Buchanan, Macklester (or McAlester), Griffin, and Collins (or Cullins).

I am lonely without my son. A grieving mother.

Malenkov May Find Trouble in China

By PHIL NEWSOM
UP Foreign News Editor
It will take more than mere lip-service to prove the "indestructible friendship" between China's Mao Tse Tung and the new rulers of Communist Russia.

In fact there is reason to hope that with China, as elsewhere, far George Malenkov and his lieutenants in the Kremlin will run into trouble.

For Malenkov has inherited the name of Russian premier but not Stalin's fame. The necessity of presenting closed ranks before the rest of the world may lead Mao Tse Tung to acknowledge on paper Soviet Russia's continued leadership of world communism. When the upstart Malenkov, who didn't even join the revolution until it practically was won, starts giving Mao orders, the picture may be different.

Not immediately but in the long run it might help us reach a settlement of the Korean war.

Russia has been more interested in continuing the Korean War than China. Before India submitted her recent Korean peace plan to the United Nations, she had discussed it with Red China and obviously had obtained a green light.

The Russians killed it. But what Mao was willing to do for Stalin, he may not be willing to do for Malenkov.

The winter at Valley Forge was only one in a series of dreadful winters endured by Continental troops in the Revolution. Others at Morristown were as bad or worse.

Tom F. Payne, 70, Local Used Car Dealer, Dies

Tom F. Payne, aged 70, longtime resident of Hope, died early Wednesday in a local hospital. He was a former member of the state city police forces but for the past few years was a used-car dealer. A native of Greentree, he lived in Howard county a number of years.

Survivors include his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Frances Jamieson of Hope, a brother and eight sisters.

Funeral services will be held at the 5th and Grady Street Church of Christ at 2 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be at Center Point.

Income Tax Slash Bill to Face Test

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — A bill to cut personal income taxes 10 percent starting July 1 appeared likely today to face a test vote in the House in mid-April.

Whether it will be confined solely to reducing the tax rate or be opened to all sorts of amendments — including one to increase the personal exemption from $600 to $1,000 — may depend on the attitude of the Republican leadership of the House.

That leadership — in line with President Eisenhower's position — is opposed to the bill in any form until the federal budget is balanced or close to being balanced.

Three of waiting for the leadership-controlled rules committee to send the bill to the floor, Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-Mt.) announced yesterday he will force a vote if the rules committee doesn't act by April 15.

Reed, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which approved it on Feb. 16, can demand a vote on the bill at any time. But if he does so, it would be open to all sorts of changes dealing with personal income taxes.

Rather than risk opening the measure to amendments, Reed has requested the rules committee to protect it with a special rule. His request twice has been rejected, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill.) has said he doesn't intend to alter his position until he is certain the federal Treasury can stand it.

"I am not going to wait any longer than April 15," Reed told newsmen. "If the bill gets out of hand on the floor because I can't get a rule barring amendments, it will be the responsibility of the leadership for not granting me that rule. I have my own responsibility to get action on the bill in time for new withholding tax forms to be ready by July 1."

Reed reportedly was seeking an informal agreement from Democrats and Republicans to vote against any changes in the bill. Such an agreement, however, wouldn't be binding.

Allen said the responsibility will be Reed's if the bill gets out of hand on the House floor.

Army to Call 53,000 Men During May

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today issued a draft call for 53,000 men in May.

This is the same number previously asked in the months of February, March and April. It will bring the total of men drafted or earmarked for service to 1,414,430 since selective service was resumed on September, 1950.

Only the Army has been resorting to the draft since last May, when the marine corps discontinued use of selective service after drafting 81,430 men.

The Navy and the Air Force have depended entirely upon volunteer enlistments.

Gromyko Tries to Smear U.S. Army, Promptly Draws Fire From Lodge at UN Meet

By STANLEY JOHNSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. S. charged today that Russia's bosses have embarked on a policy of imperialism, not because of any fear of aggression by any other country, but because of fear of their own people.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., told the U. N. General Assembly that the Soviet Union had lost the respect of the world because of its policy of "violent words and violent deeds."

The assembly broke out into wild applause, and had to be called to order, as Lodge spurned charges by Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko that the U. S. was doing everything in its power to prolong the Korean War.

The exchange broke out shortly after British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said that, despite Korea, we were not yet in World War III.

In that connection, Gromyko accused the U. S. army of atrocities in Korea.

While assembly president Lester B. Pearson of Canada, gavelled for order, Lodge reminded Gromyko that "the U. S. army you seek to smear is the same U. S. army which stood beside the Russian army to defeat the Nazis in Europe."

Lodge told Gromyko that "the U. S. army was good enough for you in 1942, 1943, 1944, and 1945. It would be the same today had not the policies of the Soviet government so tragically changed."

Ex-Egyptian King, Queen End Romance

ROME, (UP) — Members of the family of former Queen Nariman of Egypt reported today that her romance with ousted playboy King Farouk has ended.

They said the royal couple entered a separate agreement last night and that Nariman intended to go home to Egypt.

A spokesman for Farouk living in exile at his villa near Rome, denied the rift.

But reports both here and in Cairo indicated that the marriage of the role poly former king and Nariman, whom he met in a jewelry shop, was threatened with disaster.

It was believed that last-minute attempts at a reconciliation might be under way today.

The Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram first reported that Farouk and Nariman had been "divorced" last night.

However, in simplifying this report, Al-Ahram said Nariman's mother, who came to Rome last week, called members of the family in Cairo yesterday.

"Separation will be final tonight," a great-uncle of Nariman said in Cairo that the cablegram had been received.

The former president and 72 other guests will whet their appetites at the reception with a fine French champagne Dom Perignon '34 and such rich tidbits as caviar, shrimp and pate de foie gras.

Chinese Reds Warm Toward Soviet Premier

By RUTHERFORD PATS
TOKYO, (UP) — Peiping Radio said tonight that the Communist Party of China and the Chinese people "warmly" support the appointment of Georgi Malenkov as premier of Soviet Russia.

The broadcast, which quoted the complete text of an editorial in the Peiping People's Daily, was the first official announcement of the endorsement of Malenkov by the Chinese government and Chinese Communist party.

Entitled, "Long live the triumph of the party of Lenin and Stalin," the article said appropriate measures have been taken to insure uninterrupted, correct leadership of the Soviet Union. "The decision is of vital historic significance," the broadcast said. "It is unanimously supported by the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the entire Soviet people."

"Our Communist Party of China and the Chinese people, as well as the laboring peoples throughout the world also warmly support this decision."

The announcement just about ended any hopes by Westerners here that China would show a more independent policy towards the Kremlin.

Cold Wave Pushes Down from Canada

By United Press
A cold wave pushed down from Canada today, cutting short a preview of spring for the Midwest.

Forecasters said light snow would reach northern Kansas by Thursday. Rain or snow could be expected in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa as the air mass moves east, they said.

The cold wave, from the Plains section of Western Canada, spread into Northern Montana and northern North Dakota late yesterday. Within two hours the temperature at Great Falls, Mont., fell 30 degrees from a pleasant 64.

Czechs Charge Their Plane Was Attacked

By DONALD J. CONZALBA
WASHINGTON, (UP) — Diplomatic sources predicted today that the United States will demand a formal Communist apology and a cash indemnity for the MIG-15 that took an American plane in Germany.

Administration and congressional leaders regarded the unprovoked downing of the plane as one of the most serious incidents the cold war has produced. It was almost certainly due for top-level discussion at President Eisenhower's weekly meeting with the National Security Council today.

Some members of Congress saw the attack as a bad omen of what the west may expect from the men who look over the leadership of Russia after the death of Joseph Stalin.

Diplomatic officials, however, said it is entirely too early to conclude that now Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov has embarked on a more aggressive international policy.

On the basis of preliminary confidential reports from U. S. Air Force officials in Germany, the saw no reason to believe that the attack was a deliberate "warlike gesture ordered from or inspired by Moscow."

They pointed out that the battle between Czechoslovakia and West Germany, where the attack occurred, has been closely controlled by Red and Allied fighter planes for a "long time" with charges of a clash "always possible."

WIEN, (UP) — German

Two U. S. fighter pilots who were fired at by two Communist MIG-15 jets over the U. S. zone of Germany said today they were "tanked without warning, but did not fire back."

Asked at a news conference why they did not shoot back, the two defended, one replied, "We didn't or not answer that question."

The two pilots gave a brief account of the shooting down of one American jet by two Soviet-made jets from the Czech zone. It was the first time an American aircraft had been shot down in the zone of the U. S. zone, near the Czechoslovak frontier without warning.

care of the personnel required. There is nothing to this contention, as when the Southwestern Proving Ground was active, it took care of many more people than would be required to staff the airport. If there were anything to this, it has been well demonstrated that there is no particular difficulty in taking care of added personnel, as both at the two plants here and the naval ordnance depot at Camden, people working there come from as far away as 40, 50 and 60 miles.

Congressman Oren Harris is in very close touch with this situation and if you desire any further information, I am sure that he can supply it completely and promptly.

I sincerely hope you can see your way clear to exerting your influence in favor of Hope.

With kindest regards and best wishes and looking forward to seeing you April 28, Sincerely,

C. E. PALMER

Mr. Wright, Chairman, Congressman House Office Building Washington, D. C.

Dear Wright: I enclose carbon of letter I am writing to the two Arkansas senators relative to reactivating the airport at Hope, Arkansas built for the Southwestern Proving Ground during the war.

I don't know whether you would feel like being helpful in this in any way or not, as the air field is located in Arkansas, but I believe that its proximity to Red River Arsenal and the Lone Star Munitions plant is a very important factor in this.

If you can be helpful in any way, and feel that it is proper for you to do so, I know that you will be very glad to cooperate.

With kindest regards and best wishes. Sincerely,

C. E. PALMER

Dear Mr. Edwards: I understand that you are taking quite an interest in the reactivation of the air field at Hope, Arkansas which was established during the war for the Southwestern Proving Ground, rather than for the government to spend many millions of dollars and waste the time required to build an airport at another location.

I enclose herewith carbon of a letter I am writing to the two Arkansas senators and am also sending copies to Congressman Oren Harris and Congressman Wright.

I think the proximity of this airport to the Red River Arsenal and the Lone Star Munitions Plant here should be a very important point in this matter.

With best wishes. Sincerely,

C. E. PALMER

The Hon. Oren Harris, M. C.
House Office Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Harris: The City of Nashville, with a population of 450,000, located in the South Central part of Howard County, is vitally interested in the possible re-location of the proposed $55,000,000 Jet Bomber Base at Hope, Arkansas. Nashville is located approximately twenty miles from the actual proposed location of said Air Base at Hope. A first class hard surface road, Highway No. 2 out of Nashville connects us with Hope.

In the interest of economy, we urge that you do all possible to bring about the re-location of this proposed Air Base with the idea in mind of utilizing the present facilities at Hope. The Airport at Hope has three, 5500 foot concrete runways, and can be extended to any distance needed. In addition to these runways, the Hope Airport has acres of concrete aprons on which is located a brick and steel hangar 130 feet by 140 feet. All this, together with the fact that the City of Hope owns about 2000 acres of land which will be made available, and more land can easily be obtained if desired, is free of any cost to the government.

The City of Nashville stands ready to welcome a portion of the needed base personnel, and our city can easily afford housing for at least 400 families. We have excellent church and school facilities, in fact, we recently completed the construction of a new $150,000 grade school. Our school system could easily absorb these families. Yours very truly,

H. A. DILDY, MAYOR
City of Nashville

for the third time yesterday.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Price control officials said today coffee prices may be decontrolled this week but no firm decision has been made.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — An ex-convict and self-styled doctor who admitted to a legislative investigation committee he "never went beyond high school," testified last night he prescribed a powerful sedative and heart depressant for hillbilly Singer Hank Williams nine days before his death.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — High Potency vitamins and "shotgun" doses of such food supplements as iron, molybdenum and other minerals may be a waste of money in some cases, says a leading blood specialist.

NEW YORK (UP) — A homemade bomb exploded mildly in the Radio City Music Hall yesterday. Its "pop" reportedly attracted the attention of only one person in the audience of about 6,000.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dying woman has been granted a divorce under which her eight children will get financial benefit.

Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler went to the bedside of Mrs. Eleanor Bonus, 53, yesterday to ra five minute hearing. Then he granted the uncontested interlocutory decree from Fred Bonus, 68.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms. . . .

parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. Tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P.W. Vermicide. . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets prescribed by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Czechs Charge

MIG planes yesterday were caught by Czech fighter planes 25 miles inside Czechoslovakia.

The Czechs made their charge that the U. S. planes invaded their territory in a note handed the American embassy in Prague and broadcast by Prague radio. The broadcast was heard here.

The Czech claim was the first acknowledgment by the Prague government of the incident which has drawn the "strongest possible" protest from the United States. It also was an acknowledgment by the Czech government that its planes were involved in the attack, in which one of the two American planes was shot down.

The U. S. pilots said the Czech planes attacked them 15 miles inside the U. S. zone of West Germany. The downed plane crashed near Regensburg Germany, well inside the American zone.

If driving makes you tired
don't blame the road
—it's your car's fault!

HERE'S HOW THE NEW '53 PLYMOUTH
KEEPS YOU FEELING FRESH—ALL DAY LONG!

The new Plymouth fights the road for you, not with you! True balance designing "irons out" rough roads to give you a boulevard-smooth ride. Also, it takes the struggle out of steering, reduces the fatigue and nervous tension of long hours at the wheel. In the new Plymouth you know you've got complete control of the car and the road—and it's a mighty comforting feeling!

An old-fashioned "Rock of Gibraltar" hood design can keep you tense, on edge—worrying about what you can't see that's directly ahead of the car.

The new Plymouth has a low hood silhouette that lets you see more of the road directly ahead. This is modern styling—with a practical purpose!

Nothing builds up nervous tension like brakes that give an uncertain, uneven response to the pressure of your foot on the pedal. But with Plymouth's Safe-Guard hydraulic brakes you drive relaxed, confident of smooth, even braking response at every stop. There are two hydraulic brake cylinders in each Plymouth front wheel, where competitive cars have only one, plus greater areas of Cyclebond brake lining that assure longer, more dependable braking.

How can you relax when you have to worry about blowouts? Plymouth's famous Safety-Rim Wheels protect you with special retaining ridges that hold a deflated tire safely on the rim in case of a blowout. These and many other thoughtful Plymouth features add up to the most carefree, as well as the most comfortable, ride ever built into a low-priced car!

Plymouth offers two great lines of cars: the CAMBRIDGE the CRANBROOK

Illustrated below is the 4-door Sedan in the thrifty Plymouth Cambridge line—great value leader of the lowest-priced field. Same great value in the Plymouth Cranbrook 4-door Sedan, with luxury and refinements offered by no other low-priced car.

Mrs. Tollett to Speak at Jr.-Sr. PTA Meeting
The Hope Junior-Senior High School PTA will have its regular monthly meeting Thursday, March 12, at 3:30 p.m. in the Junior High School Auditorium.

"Guidesposts for Effective Citizenship" is the theme for this year and at Thursday's meeting Mrs. Henry Haynes, program chairman, will present Mrs. A. B. Tollett who will speak on "Good Citizens Look to Their Homes."

Every mother and father should be a good citizen by belonging and attending when possible the Parent Teacher Association for if we expect our children to be interested in their books and become good citizens then we should show an interest in the school they attend and the teachers who train them. The teachers of our school are congenial and co-operative so parents let us show our appreciation for this fine spirit by faithful work in this important organization that tends to bring closer together the home, the school, and the church.

Special music will be rendered by the Junior High School band under the direction of Mr. Thomas Cannon. Patsy Samuels, a student, will bring the President's message entitled "Who Are We?"

The election of officers will also be held at this meeting so all members are urged to be present. Visitors are always invited and welcomed.

This simple, basic idea had made him rich.

I worked the night shift, taking news stories over the long distance phone about holdups in the Ozarks, criminals being electrocuted in the state prison, or somebody in Southern Illinois turning his car over on the way home, killing himself and somebody else's wife. I was new at the typewriter, and all the tawdry tales of people in trouble were a kind of romance instead of misery.

The older newspapermen were heroes to me, their gossip of old scandals in the news was the shop talk of journalistic demi-gods. Would there ever be stories like that again, I wondered, and would I get to write them?

Two of my favorite titans were an old copyreader embittered by futility and a long duel with his ulcer, and a rewrite man named Johnny, who had a boy's face, a deathlook in his eyes, and an ability to sing "Wabash Moon" in a way you could never forget.

After knocking off work at 2 a. m., we would tour the water front, trudging over worn cobblestones from one joint to another. But finally we always settled down in one called "Little Bohemia," run by a Serbian artist named Savo Radulovich. It had sawdust on the floor, red checked tablecloths, and was lit by candles in bottles. You could lean out the back window and spit in the beautiful Mississippi.

The beer flowed like wine, a phonograph played "dark eyes" over and over and over, and in between Johnny Warbled "Wabash Moon" and the old copyreader talked of the dead days past when newspapermen were really news papermen.

One night I looked across one of the tables into the grey eyes of a girl. Later I didn't come to the tavern so much. I walked in Forest Park with the girl with the grey eyes, spilling college poetry in her ears, and listening happily as she told me I was sure to write the great American novel one of these days.

All of this happened nearly 20 years ago, and it lasted only a few short months.

Now when I come back to St. Louis I know that the waterfront joints are torn down. "Dizzy Dean no longer throws a fast one, and Joe Louis has been up the ladder and down. . . Johnny died long ago, the old copyreader took his ulcer to heaven. . . there isn't a nickel beer left in town. . .

Took Picture of Bomb, Then Killed

TOKYO (AP)—A young Navy cameraman captured on film the last seconds of a wild bomb which skidded toward him down a carrier flight deck. Then he was killed as the bomb exploded.

The Navy released the story today.

Hot fragments and flames killed another man and wounded 15 more when the bomb blew up on the deck of the fast U. S. carrier Oriskany off Korea's east coast last Friday.

The Navy said six of the wounded still are in serious condition, but all are showing definite improvement.

The two killed were Thomas Leo McGraw, 22, photographer, also man, of Theresa, N. Y., and Thomas M. Yeager, 19, aviation electrician airman, of Columbus, O. The population of Fairness is estimated at 9,600,000.

These Days

GENOVESE AND TRESCA

When I read of the quarrels between Mr. and Mrs. Vito Genovese, I could not help but recall that Carlo Tresca, radical editor and anti-Stalinist, was shot down in the streets of New York in January, 1943, and that nothing has ever been done about it. Tresca was killed by an assassin hired for the job from Russia, Inc.

I had known Tresca well in the days of the I.W.O. when he, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, big Bill Haywood, Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman and others were enthusiastic philosophic anarchists, preaching doctrines of human liberty which would today in most parts of the world be regarded as conservative. If not reactionary, Tresca had Soviet Russia, as did Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn became a leader of the Communist Party and has now been sentenced to prison.

Tresca was dramatic and fierce, with a sort of Svengali appearance. Yet, he was a deeply sincere man and was killed for it. According to Cienfuegos Reinhardt, in "Crime Without Punishment," Gerhart Eisler had told him that Tresca would be killed before it happened. And Reinhardt ties the murder up with Tresca's fight in the Victory Council and the OWI against the excessive employment of Communists in those organizations.

The Victory Council, which the Communists had infiltrated and controlled, was an OWI sponsored organ of foreign language newspapers designed to stimulate pro-War II propaganda.

The OWI, at that time, was motivated perhaps by the thought that Russia was our ally, but it got fouled up by overdoing friendship to a point of subservience. The Victory Council, instead of being dominated by the OWI, was the organ of the Kremlin, and Tresca became a member of the Russian Secret Police, ran the Victory Council, in spite of the fact that it was paid for by the American taxpayer.

Carlo Tresca was killed by being shot at from a car on West 15th Street. The car was abandoned. The ownership of the car was never satisfactorily traced. What ever suspects the police found, the lines petered out. The murder has never been solved, just as the murders of Juliet Poyntz and of General Krivitsky have not been solved. It is, however, spoken of freely in the Communist underground that Murder, Inc., was hired to do a professional job on Tresca.

How Genovese's name came into the case is described by Reinhardt as follows:

In the fall of 1944, the Brooklyn District Attorney's office was given definite information as to who had supervised the Tresca killing, but the authorities neglected to follow up. The man who gave the information was Ernest Rupolo, a convicted gunman. He told the D.A.'s office that Vito Genovese, a Murder, Inc., jobholder had set up the Tresca murder. Genovese, then serving as an American Military Government interpreter in Italy, was brought back to face another murder charge that Rupolo had planned on him but was never bothered with the Tresca case at all.

Genovese is now in difficulties with the Attorney General because of deportation proceedings. There ought to be a way of finding out from him or his wife just what happened in the Tresca murder. Surely, the operators of Murder, Inc., cannot be sentimental about their employees, any more than they are emotionally involved in the tasks they undertook.

Therefore, if any of them wanted to tell or found it advantageous to tell, they could make available the facts of this case, particularly the name of the employer.

Although Tresca was a philosophic anarchist who believed in individual rights and that government was a nuisance, he actually grew and fought the peril that now faces us. He was at least 10 years ahead of his time and became a dangerous person because he was better than most of the

Tech Wins in Fast Finish by 85-81

KANSAS CITY (M) — Mississippi Southern, Springfield (Mo) State and St. Peter's college looked like the pick of the field in the first round of the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) Basketball Tournament.

But whether they can hold up under the grind of the six-day meet is another question. To take the title, a team must win five games.

The 32-team tournament moved into the second round today with four afternoon and four night games scheduled.

St. Peter's of Jersey City, N.J., used a balanced attack in walloping Southwestern (Okla.) State 61-60 in its first start yesterday.

The New Jersey club was paired against East State Texas of Commerce in the second round.

Mississippi Southern, which rolled up a 100 to 72 score in beating River Falls (Wis.) Teachers Monday, lined up against Loyola of Baltimore in the second round.

Springfield State, the defending champion, is scheduled to play Stetson University of Deland, Fla., tonight. Springfield won its opener easily yesterday, romping over Gonzaga of Spokane, Wash., 55-74.

An estimated 6,000 fans turned out for the four night games on yesterday's nine-game card in Municipal Auditorium.

Other scores included: Loyola of Baltimore 60 Portland, Ore., 84 East Texas State 57 Adrian, Mich., 40; Arkansas Tech 85 East Carolina State 81; Arizona State of Tempe 41 East Tennessee State 79; Hamline 89 Louisiana Tech 80; Stetson 75 Iowa State Teachers 57; Tennessee A&I 89 Geneva College of Beaver Falls, Pa., 88.

Tennessee A&I is the first Negro college to participate in the national tournament.

PRESCOTT (M) — First round play in the Class B high school basketball tournament opens tonight with Oden against Rison, Valley View against Villa and Bismarck against Mountainburg.

Looming in the background is Bergman, which doesn't enter tournament play until the windup of the first rounds tomorrow night.

The tall, poised, experienced Northwest Arkansas team defeated Bruno by one point in pre-tournament play and Bruno had established itself as a team to beat by downing three teams state champions Valley Springs.

Bergman represents District 1 East which has turned out five of the 14 titleholders in the Class B division.

Tonight's play starts with the Oden-Rison match. Both Oden and Bismarck previously have held the state title.

Other first round play will be completed tomorrow night with Hampton vs Parkin, Dyess vs Bee Branch, Dover vs Locksburg and Cherry Valley vs Cord Charlotte.

College and the Jonesboro Frolics probably will be matched in the finals.

The Jonesboro quintet turned back Ouachita College, 95-88, in its third score past the 90 mark since the tournament opened.

Arkansas College, the pre-tournament favorite, defeated Hot Springs Coca Cola, 96 to 81, to move into semifinal play.

The tall Razorback Ramblers were defeated, 88-67, by Hendrix College, which takes on the Jonesboro Frolics in semi-finals play tonight.

Arkansas College will meet Lion Oil Co. of El Dorado, which downed Acee Milk Co. of Ft. Smith, 71-68.

The Frolics Maurice Miller Bucketed 39 points as high man in quarter-final play. Harry Neff of Arkansas College wasn't far behind with 31 and Lion Oil's Switch Dopson dropped in 23.

DeQuensne Picked to Finish Fast

By BEN PHLEGAR

NEW YORK (M) — An unseeded team will play in the finals of the National Invitation Basketball tournament Saturday night and probably will rate almost an even chance of winning the 12-team show.

Duquesne, which dumped third-seeded Western Kentucky, 69-61, last night, tangles with St. John's of Brooklyn, conquerors of second-seeded La Salle, in one of the semifinals tomorrow night.

The tournament takes a one-day break tonight after reducing the field to Duquesne, St. John's top seeded Seton Hall, which won a desperate battle over Niagara, 79-74 last night, and fourth-seeded Manhattan, an easy winner over Louisville Monday night.

"I think I would pick Duquesne to go all the way," declared Eddie Hickey, whose St. Louis University team was toppled by St. John's in the first round.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

Derek looked at Carol anxiously, as though worried by her continued silence.

"You're not angry at me, Carol?" I thought, I was best to straighten things out with Rosenthal. "I'm sure you did what you thought was best, Derek," she returned evenly.

He looked relieved. "I'm glad you agree. You know how much I like you. I told you that last night, didn't I? I'm hoping you'll come to like me as much, Carol."

I wish this weren't so public. There are several things I want to say to you. They had put their plates aside, barely touched. He reached across and took one of her hands.

Julie came and stood over them, grinning down at them implacably. "Come on, you two. Cut out the soft stuff. Dessert is being served. Go back and fill up your plates again."

Derek got to his feet. "I'll get some dessert for both of us. What's yours, Carol? Ice cream, cake, fruit?"

She smiled. "I've had so much. I'll just have fruit and coffee."

Julie and he moved away together. Carol was staring down at the ornamental tiled floor of the patio when a shadow fell across the floor.

A large shadow. A moment later Maxie Rosenthal lowered her huge bulk into the seat Derek had vacated.

"Well, well, I thought I'd come over and have a few words with you, little lady," he said.

It was "little lady" now; it had been "that woman" before. And the big, fat face now looked completely genial.

"You mustn't hold that little dust-up we had just now in the garage against me, little lady," he went on. "I didn't understand the situation at all," his smile expanded, "you weren't exactly helpful."

He went on: "No, sir, I actually swallowed that line about you being in love with that bum in the garage. I should have had sense enough to know you were kidding."

"You don't think a girl could be in love with a bum?" I thought some bum, as you call them, appeal to women," she commented.

He gave her a sharp look. Maxie was no fool, but whether or not he suspected sarcasm he seemed determined to ignore it.

"Oh, they may," he shrugged his shoulders indifferently, "but I should have seen you were."

Copyright, 1932, by Jennifer Ames. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Too sensible a kid, especially since," he lowered his voice and gave her a prodigious wink. "I gathered from pal Derek you're interested in another direction."

"It's a fine young fellow, little lady," he went on. "And rich. But I don't need to tell you that. And once again he gave her that wink. "You'd do yourself a mighty good turn by marrying him."

The Prince again, Carol thought with a wry inward smile, and Cinderella, but still a reluctant Cinderella.

"Yes, I suppose I should," she agreed, and added, "Derek is very nice."

"You English girls don't give much away, do you?" he said.

"I gathered today you didn't like the English, Mr. Rosenthal," she remarked dryly.

"Oh, come," he said. "Don't take what I said personally. What I said wasn't aimed at you, but at that bum in there." He jerked his head in the direction of the garage again.

"You see, I took you for his girl friend. Now I know you're not, I apologize."

Now you think that one day I may be Mrs. Derek Appleton, Carol thought with that same inward smile. Maxie may think he's boss down here, but obviously he respects the Appletons.

For the moment she felt she had the advantage. She decided suddenly to play upon it. She said in a much more friendly way than she'd spoken to him previously, "I'd heard of you before I met you today, Mr. Rosenthal."

"Nothing bad, I hope?" he asked with a heavy tactlessness.

She didn't answer that. Instead, she laughed and said, "But I must say you have strange ideas about a bouquet for a lady!"

"How come?" His voice had sharpened.

"I was thinking of that flowering cacti plant you sent Mrs. Felton."

There was a pause. She couldn't tell from his expression what his reaction was.

"You saw them?" he asked finally.

She nodded. "I unpacked the box. Mrs. Felton and I were sharing a suite at the Plaza."

He gave her another penetrating look. "You read the message?"

She hesitated. "Yes, I did."

"You a great friend of Thelma's?" he asked in another pause.

"I shouldn't say exactly a friend," she murmured, and added, "But she's my boss. You know she owns Felton's now?"

"Gosh, and doesn't that give me a laugh." He gave the laugh too, a loud guffaw that ended abruptly. It was completely mirthless. "Well, since you read the note, I won't kid you. I told her, as you know, she'd better keep out of this place."

"But supposing she decides to come down?" I understand she's thinking about it," Carol said.

"She is? She wouldn't dare." His voice grated.

"I think she might. I think there's rather a large inducement for her to come," she said quietly.

"There is?" He gave her a hard look, and now there was no trace of geniality in his expression.

"Well, if she comes, I've got a little surprise for her. A little surprise I've been saving up for her for some time. I haven't sprung it on her yet. Maybe I've been too soft-hearted. I'm like that with women—some women—so long as they do what I tell them, that is. She pulled a dirty trick on me, but still I've kept my mouth shut. I let her fool that old English fossil she picked up in Nassau. Sure, why shouldn't she cash in if she could get away with it? She always was a smart one."

Carol was sitting straight and tense. She felt a rising excitement that it was difficult to control.

She worded her next questions carefully. "Then you don't think she would risk coming down here, Mr. Rosenthal?"

He shook his large head. "But I almost wish she would. I'd like to see her face when—" He broke off and coughed, as though suddenly he realized he was saying too much.

"But why send her flowering cacti?" she asked curiously.

He gave a rather guffaw of laughter. "I used to tell her she was like a cactus plant—tough, exotic, dangerous. She'd prick you as soon as look at you, but beautiful, too, like the plant when the flowers come out. So beautiful, there are times you forget those sharp needlelike spikes that can prick and even hurt you." His voice had roughened.

"You sent her another cactus plant to the ship the day we sailed," she murmured.

He turned and frankly stared at her. "What are you talking about?" he demanded.
